Kia ora ko Manaaki ahau,
he teina hou tōku ko Hari tōna ingoa

I manaakitia a Hari i roto
i te kōpū o māmā.

Nā te whānaunga mai o Hari kua
taea e mātou katoa te tiaki i aia.
E aroha nui ana tō mātou whānau
katoa ki a ia, he taonga ia.

I waihangatia e Pāpā he moenga
mō Hari, he wahakura te ingoa.

I te wā e moe ana a Hari ka noho
te wahakura ki runga i te moenga
o Māmā raua ko Pāpā

He āhuru mowai te wahakura
mo Hari iaia e moe ana kia
Māmā raua ko Pāpā.

Ka whakatakoto a Māmā i a Hari ki runga i tōna tuara ki te moe.
He pai kia Hari te hā i te hau ora.

He pai kia Māmā te whai wā kia Hari ko raua anake. Ka titiro ia ki ngā kanohi o Hari iaia e kai ana, ka waiata, ka kōrero tahi.

He pai kia Hari te noho tata kia
Māmā raua ko Pāpā.
Ki taku whakapae ka moe a Hari
kia rāua ā tahi noa ana tau.

Ka tupu ora Hari ka
penei i ahau.

Hari is going to grow to be big and strong like me.

Hari likes to stay close to mummy and daddy, so I think he will sleep near them until he celebrates his first birthday.

My mummy loves spending time with Hari she gazes into his eyes while he is feeding; she talks and sings to him too.

Mummy puts Hari to sleep on his back so he can see the stars when he wakes.
Hari loves to breath in clean fresh air so we make sure the air around him isn't yucky.

Hari's wahakura keeps him safe when he sleeps with mummy and daddy.

Hari's wahakura stays on my mummy and daddy's bed.

My dad made Hari a special bed,
it's called a wahakura.

He is loved by all our whanau including me. We call him our tāonga. Now that he has been born our whanau get to care for him too.

Mummy took very special care of herself when Hari was in her tummy.

Hi! I'm Manaaki and Hari is my brand new baby brother.
